

On the occasion of the coming of the new year, the Chairman of the Group Mr. Platon Lanitis, in a recent article in the daily press, referred to the actions taken in the unprecedented conditions of the past year, as well as the prospects of the economy for the new year that has just entered. You can see below characteristic quotes from Mr. Lanitis' article:

«The coming new year finds us all in a situation truly unprecedented and in a new and liquid daily "normality" that is constantly changing. We are all on standby mode, but at the same time vigilant, about what the conditions will be in the near future and how we should act. Both professionally and personally».

«It is a fact that the recent announcements about the positive developments in the evolution and future use of the COVID-19 vaccine create a rather optimistic environment. The faster the relevant vaccine is developed and made available for use, the easier it will be to create positive economic conditions, so that we can plan our short-term and medium-term business plans with more confidence and accuracy. It is a fact, however, that we should not indulge in premature triumphs and complacency, since we still have a long way to go until we say goodbye to the virus for good».

«We have proved many times in the recent past that with hard and focused work, prudence and long-term vision we can succeed. Therefore, this time too, applying strategies characterized by vigilance, flexibility, and adaptability, we will work hard again, to contribute to the redirection and growth of the economy of our country».

I wish a happy and creative new year to all, and personal and family joy, health, and happiness.

«One Photo, One Story»

Since its establishment, Amathus has represented the most important foreign airlines in Cyprus. The most important representation, however, for both financial and emotional reasons, was that of the national air-carrier of Greece, the Olympic Airways. From its foundation in 1957, until its complete shrinkage, at the end of the decade of 2010, Olympic was represented in Cyprus exclusively by Amathus.

The photo on the left from 1964 shows the head office of Amathus in Nicosia, with all the advertising logos of Olympic Airways dominating the front-face of the offices.
